

Reverse Networking:

Bringing the Ag Industry to Students

What

Reverse networking is bringing the Ag Industry to students to provide opportunity to explore work placement, career opportunities and mentorship with industry leaders. Lauren McNally, Mort & Co HR manager will be speaking on the topic of “The Generation Next: A square peg in a round hole.”

Where

Room 8111-113, University of Queensland, Gatton Campus

Nibbles and networking outside

When

Thursday, 11 April 2019

2:30pm to 5:30pm

Cost

$10 per head– includes soft drinks and nibbles with all proceeds going to LIFE FLIGHT

Tickets available at:

Lauren McNally

Lauren McNally is on a mission to assist in building and developing capabilities of rural agricultural workforces for sustainable future growth, she particularly loves working with the people in intensive agriculture who ‘keep it real’ and are genuinely defined by the nature of our work. Lauren has been working alongside intensive beef businesses for the past 14 years, and her background has largely focused on Training, Human Resources and Safety. Lauren relishes strategically implementing change that is both beneficial and visionary.

